Cardiovascular Conditioning

Exercise that challenges the heart is a simple part of an exercise program – almost anyone can walk, run, treadmill, climb steps, or bike. But, creating a progressive, time efficient and results oriented cardio program takes a little planning. A properly designed and consistently performed cardiovascular training program is an essential part of your program if you want to improve your health and lose weight, or maintain a healthy lifestyle.

Training Aerobically

Aerobic exercise is the key to building a stronger heart and can reduce your chances of heart disease, as well as burn lots of fat and calories. Aerobic exercise is any activity that you can keep at for several minutes or longer and increases your heart rate. Activities that have the potential to condition the heart typically involve the large muscles of the hips, thighs and buttocks. Examples include walking, hiking, jogging, running, cycling, in-line skating, swimming, cross-country skiing and stair stepping.

Benefits of Aerobic Training

Health benefits of aerobic exercise include the following:

1. A stronger and healthier heart.
2. Increased HDL. This “good” cholesterol helps keep your arteries unplugged and healthy.
3. Decreased total cholesterol. This is the debris in your blood that can clog your arteries.
4. Reduced blood pressure. Even moderate exercise can help.
5. Reduced risk for heart attack and stroke.
6. Decreased body fat and an ability to help you reach your desirable weight. You’ll become a better fat-burner and burn a lot of calories every session.
7. Decreased risk for diabetes.
8. Reduced feelings of anxiety, tension and depression.
9. Improved sleep.
10. Higher levels of energy. Efficient delivery and use of blood and oxygen is the key to increased vigor and performance.

Warming Up And Cooling Down

Warming up and cooling down are essential to a balanced and safe exercise program. A proper warm-up and cool-down can:

- Make your workouts safe and easier to do,
- Limit the risk of unnecessary stress on your heart,
- Get you ready for your activity,

- Improve your stamina and endurance (you won't tire as quickly),
- Decrease your risk for injury,
- Increase enjoyment of your workouts, and
- Help you stick with your health and fitness program.

Warm-up. To prevent injury and maximize performance, we recommend that each workout period should start with a warm-up. Your warm-up should gently prepare your muscles for the coming exertion. Start by doing 5 to 10 minutes of gentle exercise that gradually increases your heart rate and loosens up your muscles. Your warm-up exercise should be aerobic in nature and only require an easy, unforced range of motion. This should be followed by 5 to 10 minutes of stretching. Refer to the stretches found in your manual. Never push yourself beyond a point of gentle tension or strain. Keep your movements gentle, rhythmic and controlled.

Cool-down. A cool-down reverses what your warm-up accomplished. It's just as important to ease out of your workout as it is to ease into it. The cool-down returns your body to a pre-exercise level. A proper cool-down should last about 5 to 10 minutes and consists of moderate to mild exercise. You're exercising at a level of effort that is lower than that used during the main part of your cardiovascular conditioning workout.

How Often, How Long, and How Hard

The choices you make about the frequency (how often), duration (how long), and intensity (how hard) at which you will train, will directly influence your training results.

How often. If you want to see serious improvements in your fitness, lose weight and develop a good training base, you need to do cardio workouts three to six times per week.

If you are just starting a program or out of shape, don't let these recommendations discourage or mislead you. Realize that doing cardio training two to three times per week will still result in significant fitness improvement and health benefits. Your long-term goal is to build up to exercising your heart on most days of the week.

How long. How long you work out depends on your current level of fitness. Again, if you're just starting a program or out of shape, don't follow strict textbook recommendations. Instead, start with 5 to 10 minutes once or twice per day. You will see significant fitness improvement. Your long-term goal is to build to a duration of 30 to 60 minutes of cardiovascular activity on most days of the week.

How hard. Aerobic intensity guidelines for healthy adults are generally set at 40 to 85 percent of heart rate. But, if you're out of shape, remember that moderate to low-level and consistent cardiovascular training – well below the standard recommendations set forth – can result in substantial and beneficial effects to your health and can greatly improve cardiovascular endurance.

Progressive Cardiovascular Training Program

The training program that follows is a progressive training program for cardiovascular conditioning. It can be used for any aerobic activity you choose.

A rating of 2-3 is equal to a warm-up or recovery level of effort; 4-5 equates to moderate to somewhat challenging; 6-10 represents effort that is somewhat hard, to very hard.

Smart Progression

In regard to progressing to a higher intensity level, longer duration, or more frequent sessions, it makes good sense to change only one of these elements at a time. You run a higher risk of overuse injury if you simultaneously increase more than one of these elements. A conservative yet effective guideline is to increase intensity or duration by no more than about 5 percent. You should adapt to this increase over a period of a week or two, and then consider changing one of the other variables (frequency, duration or intensity) or further progressing the one you've adapted to.

Top Aerobic Exercise

No one cardiovascular activity is better than another! Manipulating how hard (intensity), how often (duration), and how long (frequency) you participate in a particular aerobic activity determines its effectiveness or lack thereof. And of course, you have to like what you're doing. Choose the type of aerobic activity that is right for you by identifying one or more types of cardio exercise that you can see yourself sticking to, and enjoying, for the rest of your life. Often, the best aerobic exercise will be not one, but several activities that are fun and feel good to your body. Excellent cardiovascular activities include, but are not limited to, walking, swimming, water fitness, jogging, running, cross-country skiing, in-line skating, lateral movement training (slide), cycling, mountain biking, and step training.

Cardio Workout Tracking Sheet

Use this chart to keep track of your progress over time. Before writing on it, make as many copies as you think you'll need. We suggest you keep these in a notebook. You will find it both informative and motivational to look back at what you've done. This data will help you chart future fitness goals as you continue to improve.

Activity	Date	How Long (minutes)	Heart Rate	How Hard (RPE)*

*RPE = rating of perceived exertion; this means you match up a numerical rating (RPE) of 1-10, with how you feel (RPE descriptive rating in chart above). A rating of 2-3 is equal to a warm-up or recovery level of effort; 4-5 equates to moderate to somewhat challenging; 6-10 represents effort that is somewhat hard, to very hard.

Follow a Healthy Diet

A healthy diet is an important part of any fitness program. To assist you in your weight loss and fitness goals you will find sample menu plans for various calorie levels based on your caloric needs. (See "Determine Your Calorie Needs" charts on pages 7 and 8.) These are just to serve as a guideline. You may substitute other foods of the same nutrient quality for the foods listed (example: a peach may be substituted for an orange, or 1 oz. chicken may be substituted for 1 oz. of beef, or calcium fortified low fat soy milk in place of skim milk). Also you may include as many caffeine free, calorie free beverages as you desire. Limit caffeine intake to 2 cups of coffee or tea per day. Also include at least 8 glasses (8 oz. each) of water every day.

Consult your physician before beginning this or any weight loss program.

Determine Your Calorie Needs

The following charts can be used to determine your calorie needs. Actual calorie needs may vary depending on body composition, age, and activity level (see formula below for more exact calculations). If you are overweight and just beginning an exercise program it is suggested you begin with the lowest calorie level for your weight. It is not recommended to go below 1200 calories for women or 1500 calories for men without supervision from your physician and a registered dietitian. If you are diabetic or have other medical conditions, please check with your physician before starting any diet. Children have different calorie needs and therefore this chart is not appropriate for anyone under age 20.

ACTIVITY LEVELS:

Beginning = No formal exercise routine (just starting out).

Low Activity = Aerobic exercise 2 to 3 days per week.

Active = Aerobic exercise 4 to 5 days per week.

Very Active = Aerobic exercise 6 to 7 days per week.
